BULLY FOR WAT.

He Stands by His Convictions Like a Man—Dick Tyler's Bad Break.

Louisville, Aug. 24.—The conference of leading Democrats called for today, met here to-day at the State headquarters at 1:30 o'clock behind closed doors.

Gen. Hardin and all of the other candidates on the Democratic ticket were present at the conference. Gen. Hardin made a speech full of vigor. He did not recede one iota from the position he had taken on the financial question. In conclusion he was standing on the platform and was not in conflict with his party. Hardin said he would submit to a caucus of the party but he would not yield to dictation. He asserted his ability to construe the platform, and said he abided by his utterances, which have been repeated and has nothing to retract or modify.

When he closed there was warm applause from the free silver men present. All of the candidates, with the exception of Mr. Tyler, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, agreed to stand by Mr. Hardin in his conduct of the affairs. Mr. Tyler announced his purpose of continuing to speak for sound money, no matter what the utterances of the head of the ticket might be on the currency issue.

A committee of five, consisting of three silver men and two gold men, was appointed to draft an address to the Democratic voters of the State. The voters will be called upon to support Gen. Hardin, as well as the remainder of the ticket. The address will also urge Democrats to drop the currency issue.

It was after 6 o'clock when the meeting adjourned.

The Tabernacle Incident.

There has been so much criticism of the three members of the directory who refused to let the speaking be held in the tabernacle Friday that Mr. W. W. Ware, the president, furnishes the following statement:

"It was refused simply because it was forbidden in the charter, which was formulated and unanimously adopted and gave the directors as a guide in the management of the house.

It says political assemblies of every kind always excluded. Then we were urged to hold the meeting in order to allow political meetings, banquets etc., to be held in the house.

It is not our province to do so and can only be done by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the association. We can only see the charter faithfully carried out."

Killing in Caldwell County.

(Princeton Banner.)

F. J. Hanberry, of Hopson, was shot and badly wounded Thursday morning by a tenant named Herbert Sanders. One shot passed through the leg above the knee, shattering the bone, another through the arm, making a flesh wound while a third missed its mark.

As far as he had fired the third shot Sanders addled his mare and left the country, going toward Trigg county. He has lived in Trigg, Lyon and Christian counties and it is supposed that he is now among his friends somewhere in that region.

Grover Prices Prevailed.

The tobacco market last week was active, but sales were not so heavy as they had been for the past two weeks.

No fine goods were offered, the bulk of the business being made up of common leaf, lugs and trash. Prices obtained were most satisfactory. Receipts were fairly good, but nearly all the '91 crop is now in and this line of the business may be expected to gradually decrease until the new crop begins to come in. Nothing to report in the loose market.

BLOODY MURDER.

A Negro Brutally Assassinated a White Man at Gracey.

W. V. Adams, section boss on the L. & N. railroad, Gracey division, with headquarters near Gracey, was stabbed and killed about 6 o'clock Saturday morning by a negro named Jim Kline, who had previously been a section hand under him.

Cline assaulted Adams and once jerked out a knife and began to cut and stab the unarmed Adams, who was not expecting trouble, at a furious rate. Adams' little son, a boy about 12 years old, was present and saw his father wounded. Kline, after giving him several vicious stabs, at the breast made a swipe at his throat and severed his jugular vein. The blood spouted out on Kline's coat and hat and as Adams fell the murderer took to his heels.

Cline was not long enough to tell the name of his assailant. He was discovered lying by the tool house by the section hands who also saw the negro running away. The victim's hands were gashed, showing that he had repeatedly grabbed the knife blade, only to have it pulled out of his hand by the murderer bent on killing his life.

The chief of police was notified by telephone and Chief Fritz and officers Henry Layne and George Walker took the bloodhounds and started out toward Gracey. A few miles from town they met a negro running away, who was bleeding profusely.

They called to him and he came to run and jumped over a fence into a cornfield. The officers got out of the vehicle and gave chase and after firing several rounds at him he stopped, being too exhausted to run any longer. He fell to the ground. The negro's hat was bloody. He said he got the blood on it "biting beef". He had thrown away his heavy coat. He was taken to Gracey where he was identified by the little Adams boy and the men who saw him.

He was taken to the hospital. He had several attempts to break away and had to be tied and closely watched.

He reached town about two o'clock and was lodged in jail.

Kline is a small, heavy built, brown negro about 35 years old. He was a quarrelsome, trifling fellow and was known to have been an enemy by turning him off. It seems to have been a cold-blooded murder, with revenge as the motive.

Adams was a quiet, steady man, popular with the road and well liked generally. He was about 40 years old, and leaves a widow and one child. He had been in the employ of the L. & N. several years.

THE INQUEST HELD.

The Coroner's inquest developed the following additional facts:

L. D. Brown, M. D., of Julien, testified that death resulted from severing the jugular vein.

E. C. Cravens stated that Adams told him while dying that Jim Kline cut him while fighting.

W. S. Adams testified that he saw a man that resembled Jim Kline throw two rocks at Mr. Adams and then saw them run together and clinch and fall.

Dick Adams, son of W. V. Adams, testified that he saw his father get to the tool house and set the buckshot down and then Jim Kline jumped out of the house and knocked him down. He then drew the knife and stuck it in his neck. Then he got up and ran.

A Collier testified that when he came to the door he saw Adams strangled in the ditch and saw Jim Kline run away and could swear that it was the same man.

Tucker Lewis testified that he saw the man leaving and that he resembled Kline.

Charley Boslin testified that he saw the man leaving and that his form resembled Kline.

Mrs. W. V. Adams, wife of Mr. Adams, testified that her husband told her it was Jim Kline who cut him. The verdict was as follows:

We the jury summoned by the coroner to look into the cause of the death of W. V. Adams, died Aug. 24, 1895, at J. F. Clancy's sawmill, after hearing all the available evidence, find that he came to his death by a knife thrust, the same severing the jugular vein, the knife being in the hands of Jas. Kline;

CHARLEY BOSLIN, JR.

J. C. CRADIT.

J. R. HOPPER.

W. M. WALKER.

HENRY BROOKS.

All of the witnesses were put under bond to appear before the grand jury.

If we are ever to have any more hangings in Christian county, we have a fine prospect in this brutal murderer. The evidence shows that he hid in the tool house and assassinated his victim in cold blood. There was not even a quarrel. It was a murder, foul and unprovoked, and Jim Kline's neck should pay the penalty.

A protracted meeting is in progress at Longview Methodist church. Rev. D. L. Collie is assisted by Rev. M. L. Banton of Nashville. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m.

THE HOLMES SENSATION.

Career of the Notorious and Unique Criminal Epitomized.

The Police Department of Chicago Claims to Have Secured Satisfactory Evidence to Show That It Was Killed by Lewis Fox Persons.

Special Chicago Letter: If the Report of Chicago's "Foolproof" and Philadelphia police offices can't even partially be based on fact, the United States has the enviable distinction of having produced, in the person of H. Holmes, the shrewdest and most unprincipled scoundrel and criminal of the century. Holmes' career, as far as many of the crimes charged against him will fill many columns and the story of the murders said to have been committed by him, told in the barest outline, has caused intense excitement which is still growing.

H. Holmes, whose real name is Herman F. Pitzel, was born in Gilman, N. H., in 1860. At the age of H. Holmes.

17 he married Clara A. Loring, a New Hampshire girl. In 1879, while clerking at a store at East Concord, N. H., he began the study of medicine, and a year later entered the medical department of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Soon after his arrival in the Michigan city he incurred the suspicion of the police on account of a fellow student accused in passing a bill in the dissecting room as his own. The conspirators collected the insurance and absconded, leaving Holmes to bear the blame. Holmes returning to the east where he continued his studies. In 1887 he left with his wife for New York City, then to Chicago, and from that time until November, 1894, she knew nothing about his doings.

Some time in 1887 Holmes arrived in Chicago and there died in a drug store at No. 705 Sixty-third street. In 1888 he bought the store, as well as the property at the corner of Sixty-third and Wallace streets, on which he erected the building which has since become known as the "castle" or "chamber house." In 1890 he married Miss Myrtle Bolman, of Wilmette, a suburb of Chicago.

In the month of September, 1890, L. Conner was employed by Holmes to take charge of the jewelry branch of his business. Mr. and Mrs. Conner and their daughter, Pearl, were persuaded to occupy apartments in the mysterious castle. In 1891 Conner bought the store of Holmes, but soon afterward had trouble with the latter over the price. They finally separated, as Mrs. Conner was more bookkeeper by Holmes, who had resumed management of the store. On the evening of December 24, 1891, Mrs. Julia Conner and little Pearl disappeared and have not since been seen alive. On January 1, 1892, Holmes, in 1892, Miss Emilie Cigrand, a handsome young lady from Indiana, accepted a position as stenographer in the castle. In December she informed her friends that she was to marry to a Mr. Chappell, a man described as a rich man. Then she dropped out of sight completely, not even calling for her wedding outfit, which remained in the hands of the dressmaker.

About this time Holmes, who had assumed the name of Harry Gordon, visted Denver, and there met Minnie Williams, an abortionist, at the Fifteenth Street theater. Early in 1893 Miss Williams came to Chicago and was installed as Holmes' private secretary. She was possessed of property at Fort Worth, Tex., valued at $50,000, part of which she had obtained by seducing either through forged deeds or undue influence. Soon after her arrival at Chicago, Minnie sent for her sister, Nannie, to come and stay with her. Nannie left home immediately with the assurance that if she did not return at a certain time her trunk should be sent after her. Her trunk was shipped to Chicago, but was never taken out of the express office, and became stranded to him, which aroused Minnie's jealousy, and led her to kill her sister. Nannie Williams disappeared in July, 1893. One night soon after Nannie's murder the castle, which had been insured for $50,000, was burned to the ground. Holmes, it is believed, was responsible, as he was connected with the insurance company, respecting a month, refused to let the fire, and for three months tried to get hold of Holmes, who dodged about from point to point in Chicago until December 15, 1893, when he left with his wife, Clara, and Miss Emilie Cigrand; Minnie was never seen after December 15. Holmes afterward visited Indianapolis where he secured the release from jail of Pitzel, his alleged son. He then went to Fort Worth, transferred to Pitzel under the name of Benton T. Lyman. He then went to Franklin, Ind., and there met Miss Williams again. On January 1, 1894, Holmes is said to have appeared in Fort Worth, under the name of Benton T. Lyman. After beginning the erection of a building on one of the Williams lots, Holmes and Pitzel left for St. Louis and planned another swindle which led to his arrest.

In July, 1894, a life insurance policy for $10,000 was issued by a Philadelphia company in favor of Benjamin F. Pitzel. The scheme evolved by Holmes to get possession of the corpse resembling Pitzel, burn it slightly to prevent identification, forge proofs of Pitzel's death, and share the money. As a means to this end, Holmes was dressed up as a gravedigger for the Pitzel children. Alice Howard and Nellie, on December 19, 1894, the charred remains of a man were found in a deserted house at No. 1312 Callewhill street, Philadelphia. Holmes and Alice Pitzel went to Philadelphia and identified the body as that of Benjamin F. Pitzel. The insurance money was paid to J. B. Howe, a St. Louis lawyer. It is stated that Lawyer Howe received $2,500, Mrs. Pitzel $500, and Holmes the rest of the $10,000. Alice did not return to the castle with Holmes, but claimed that he had left her in good hands. On the pretext that he wished to put them in a good school, Holmes also took Nellie and Howard from their mother. He took Alice and Nellie to Cincinnati, and then to Canada, where they resided at Toronto, Canada, where, at No. 16 St. Vincent street, it is claimed, he killed the girls and buried them in the cellar. The boy, Howard, it is stated, was murdered at Indianapolis. On January 1, 1895, Detective Frank Geyer of Philadelphia identified the body of the two girls in the cellar of the Toronto cottage. They were promptly identified by their mother.

On November 17, 1894, Holmes was arrested at Boston charged with an attempt to defraud the Philadelphia life insurance company. The work of the detectives caused a belief that the body found in the Callewhill street house was that of Pitzel. Holmes was then sent to New York, where he was held in custody. Holmes was held in New York until January 1, 1895, when he was released on bail of $10,000. Holmes was then sent to the New York aquarium, that moved awhile ago from a nautilus shell into a periwinkle shell that was obviously too big; the crab could hardly stagger with it, and it was evident that he was too small. But soon it moved once more back into the periwinkle again, and it has been there ever since, not yet grown up to it, but apparently pleased with its big house. There was another hermit crab at the aquarium, which had been in a periwinkle shell, a small white hermit crab, that was datched with its fine, bright, velvety green, some sort of delicate marine growth—a lovely little shell. This shell fits its owner, who gets about with it gayly and small as it is, and it is a picture among the rest on account of its beauty.

There is left in the hermit's tank at the aquarium a number of spare shells, for the convenience and comfort of those that may desire to change their quarters. Holmes is said to be able to accommodate strangers. There was brought to the aquarium the other day, for instance, from Gravesend bay, along with a lot of killies, a hermit crab. This crab was in a worn and broken shell, and when he had crawled through its torn and half-broken shell was gone; a pretty, dilapidated sort of a house for a hermit crab to live in. It would seem as though it might have found in the sea a better shell than that, but it didn't, and the poor little thing had to make do with what it had, and in great discomfort, too. But within an hour after it was placed in the tank it had left the old shell and taken one of the spare shells for its own. The new shell is a nautilus, like the one it left, but it is larger; it is cleaner and brighter, but clearly this change was made for the sake of utility rather than of appearance, for the benefits to be derived from the new shell's tight roof and projecting hood.

The hermits are not very much given to originality, but this one did. Two hermits that met in this tank the other day, face to face, grappled and struggled with each other at a great rate. They were pretty evenly matched, but the smaller one won, and the other, and the stronger, who shook the weaker until the shell on its back rattled against the glass side of the tank like one of those electrical contrivances that are sometimes attached to window panes.

WILL RULE AUSTRIA.

Archduke Charles Louis and His Wife Have Charmed the English.

The heirs to the throne of Austria recently visited Queen Victoria and charmed the English population, for a week. The Archduke Charles Louis is the eldest brother of the Austrian emperor and is an ideal gentleman—dignified and befitting.

Holmes has been found guilty of the murder of Alice Pitzel by a coroner's jury in Chicago, and is reported to have made several statements explaining how he came in possession of the skeletons articulated for him by Chappell. He said he procured the dead bodies for the purpose of selling them to physicians for anatomical purposes, but he claims never fails to return a good profit. Police officers at Chicago and Philadelphia—Holmes is now in jail at the latter place—refuted his explanation.

Should evidence continue to accumulate late, the attorney soon hopes to be in a position to prove that Holmes murdered in cold blood Mrs. Julia Conner and her daughter, Pearl; Miss Emilie Cigrand; Minnie and Nannie Williams; Benjamin F. Pitzel, and others. To these must be added Miss Emily Van Tassel, who was employed in a candy store of Milwaukee avenue, Chicago, where a man, supposed to be Holmes, had his acquaintance. After he had visited her a few times, he got her to open her home and had been seen no more. Other victims are spoken of, but the ten persons mentioned are probably all whose mysterious disappearance can be established. It is the opinion of that of Holmes' alleged co-conspirator, that Holmes' secret is safe, as he is a sportsman and possessed of more than ordinary intelligence.

ARCHDEUCHE CHARLES LOUIS OF AUSTRIA.

Archdeuche Charles Louis is also a favorite, something of an Austrian princess of Wales. She was a young girl when she married her husband, who was a widower with four children. She has dark, dreamy eyes and a wistful expression. She represents the sorrow-changed expression at all public functions. She is a sportswoman, an artist and capital rider, as the impress.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce JUDGE THOS. J. MORROW, as a candidate for Circuit Judge of the Third Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention July 6.

Stand by your home man.

Vote for Morrow next Saturday.

The publication of Tom Molloy's letter has caused a broad smile all over the district.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. till 6 p.m. Vote and see that your neighbors vote for Morrow.

Let Democrats in Christian County resent the attacks on Judge Morrow by going to the polls and rolling up 2,000 majority for him.

Linn has no claim on Christian county and the campaign lies his organs have circulated on Morrow and his friends should be rebuked at the polls.

And so the story that Judge Morrow was not qualified for judge, circulated in Lyon, was based on a remark the master commissioner of one county made to the master commissioner of another county.

Hon. Geo. H. Alexander, the candidate for railroad commissioner in the Louisville district, stated to the Democratic conference Saturday that he had changed his views on the financial plank of the platform since hearing Hardin's speech and now agreed with him on all points.

Judge Linn has been sending out a double-barreled circular, one barrel for Calloway county only and the other for the rest of the district. The Calloway appeal for votes is on the idea that Calloway has a superior claim to the office and is intended to create prejudice against the other counties. This circular has been followed up by a hand bill scattered broad cast over Calloway county, that reads as follows:

Don't fail to go and vote for Calloway's candidate for circuit judge.

August 31.

If Linn is "Calloway's Candidate," the voters of Christian county should let him get his votes in Calloway.

Dick Tyler's foolish utterances at the conference last week will weaken the ticket in the very section where he was expected to strengthen it. He represents a strong silver district, one that will give a dozen votes to Blackburn, and that never would have presented him to the state convention if his people had known that he would forsake them so soon and become a misguided exponent of the views they have never lost an opportunity to vote against. If Mr. Tyler will read up on the duties of lieutenant governor, he will find that it will not devolve upon him to settle the financial question, and if he is a sensible man and wants to be elected he ought to remember that "Silence is golden" and govern his tongue accordingly.

The meeting of the state central committee at Louisville Saturday amounted to nothing further than the appointment of a committee to prepare an address to the Democrats of the state. There was no talk of reprimanding Wat Hardin for his construction of the platform, though there was any amount of speechmaking. Nearly all of the candidates were present, including Gen. Hardin himself, and they all counseled harmony and all except Tyler endorsed Hardin's plan of campaign. Most of them stated that they differed with him, but accorded him the privilege of making his campaign as he thought proper. None of the other candidates, with one exception, will discuss the currency question in their speeches.

Don't TOBACCO SIT or Smoke Your Life Way.

is the truthful, startling title of a book about No-No-Bae, the harmless, guaranteed tobacco that has been sold in this country for years. It eliminates the nicotine poison, makes weak men strong, gives energy, and costs less than any physical or financial risk, as No-No-Bae is sold by R. O. Hardwick under a guarantee of money-refundable return. Address Sterling Bros' Co., New York or Chicago.

Constructing the Platform.

There ought not to be any trouble in interpreting the Democratic platform. It is not an extreme document, nor is it difficult to understand.

The State convention voted down a single gold standard resolution, it voted down a free silver amendment. The platform of 1892 was adopted in common ground upon which all Democrats had stood for three years, and could still stand. Hardin, known of all men to be a staunch bimetallist—a Stalwart Democrat, if we may use the term—who loved one metal as much as the other, and favored the free coining of both, was put upon the platform. It was not expected by anybody that he would be called upon to let the gold monetarists of Louisville write his speech for him.

It was understood that a happy medium had been struck. Both sides could harmonize. The bimetallists could vote for Hardin, and the monetarists could vote for the Carlisle endorsement in the platform and the ticket, like the old nests in the trap, could "catch" any specimen of a g-wine." The bimetallists felt that they got nothing but Hardin, and although they are expected to give the votes to elect the whole ticket, they went cheerfully to work for success and, stalwart as they are, they will stand by him.

The monetarists, without inquiring what view they would take on the currency question, which had no more to do with the State election in Kentucky than has the revolution in Cuba.

Who then has kicked up all this racket? Outside of Louisville where is there any Democrat who is threatening to bolt the party? No man can be disintegrated with Hardin suddenly concurred six days after his nomination that he could not support the nominees of the convention; Hardin was not bound by any compact that he has broken. He was nominated with full knowledge of his views, expressed over Kentucky in the speech he delivered during the twenty years. It is reported from Paducah that Henry Burnett, a delegate in the convention and who is therefore under a pledge to support the nominees and whose county if we mistake not voted to make Hardin's nomination unanimous, has authority to say that he has no objection to Hardin. It is from the gold side only that such threats are heard, although the man who would become governor in the event of Hardin's death or resignation, is not a silver man.

The Louisville papers could hardly believe that Hardin would quit shilling over Capital and go to work for the ticket. They have only to stand by the platform and let the voters construe it to suit themselves. We are all pretty familiar with it by this time; most of us know it by heart, as we used to say at school. We carried Kentucky on its 1892 ticket, and will do the same this year if we go to work for victory. Whether Hardin constitutes the platform right or not, he constitutes it just as he did in the Cleveland campaign, and just as it was construed by every Democratic speaker in Kentucky. No man would dare three years ago to tell a Kentucky audience that the platform was in favor of a single gold standard. No newspaper in Kentucky, in or out of the party, set up such a claim. Then why should Democrats fall out at this late day over a plank in a platform that has been settled for three years? The reason is—Even so good a book as the Bible is construed to suit the beliefs of a hundred religious denominations, then why should we force all Democrats to construe the platform alike? If all christians, differing widely in their views, can fight over the word "sin" with the best of them, surely all Democrats can fight the Republican party, which is just about the same thing, with the same bill of wood. Let the silver men batter the enemy with one side, the gold men with the other, and if the Populists will help us punch him with the other side, the fighters in him, let's give them a chance and thank them for their services.

Let Gen. Hardin go ahead with his campaign. Let him fight the common enemy in his own way. He is an old hand at the business and knows how to lead us to victory. If silver men can vote for half a dozen goldbugs, the gold men can vote for two or three bimetallists, who have no more to do with settling the money question than they have with naming the Cleveland babies.

After we elect Hardin, and get Kentucky to the greatest and calamity of being turned over to a set of men depending for election on negro votes, we can take up national questions and settle them.

In the meantime, what is the Courier-Journal waiting for?

Bethel Female College,

The forty-second annual session of Bethel Female College will begin next Monday, Sept. 2nd. The prospects for a large attendance are very encouraging; a large number of rooms for boarders have already been engaged, and applications are coming in daily from others. Hopkinsville has good reason to be proud of the success of this institution, the history of which is interwoven with the lives of many of the most prominent women of our city and State. Its graduates are men who are to-day exercising a noble influence on home and society, as well as reflecting credit on their "Alma Mater." There has never been a time in the history of the school when it was as well equipped for its work as now. In regard to the efficiency of the faculty, and the qualifications for the conduct of its pupils, it is better than ever. Of the present management, Prof. and Mrs. T. S. McCall, nothing need be said to the people of Christian county. The teachers who have been associated with them, have also made a good reputation for themselves. Prof. Steinheil, in charge of the music department, and will be assisted by Miss Shepard. Miss Yancey will have charge of the Art work. Prof. Steinheil will give instruction heretofore in Violin and Guitar, and in French and German. It may be proper to say a few words about combining the man that goes to college for the first time in the facility.

Miss Jarman, of Nashville, Tenn., is the daughter of Prof. G. W. Jarman, LL. D., and has been for the past seven years presiding teacher at the Franklin College, from which she brings the most flattering testimonial. The following from the manager of the Montague Assembly will show the high esteem in which she is held:

I beg to leave say that Miss Jarman is a teacher of extraordinary ability and of rare culture. Below is a sketch of one of the greatest teachers Tennessee ever produced, and being trained by such a distinguished teacher as Z. C. Graves, and having full experience in the work, she is wonderfully equipped. I happen to know that they are devoted to her in Blue Mountain and are doing everything to retain her.

A. P. BORLAND,
Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Maupin, formerly presiding teacher of Georgetown Female Seminary, and recently of Lynnland Female College, is the daughter of one of the most excellent families of this State, a lady of the highest culture, and a teacher of ample experience. She will add both strength and dignity to the faculty. She is recommended in the strongest terms by Prof. J. H. Fiqua, of Russellville, Ky., and many others with whom she has been associated in teaching. Miss Maupin is a sister-in-law of Geo. F. A. Leslie.

Miss Slaughter, of Winchester, Tenn., has achieved great success as a teacher, and has won the hearts of all wherever she has taught. She has been for the past year presiding teacher of the Central High School, in the City of Covington, Ark., where she was strongly urged to remain. Miss Slaughter brings the highest commendations from Dr. Z. C. Graves, under whom she has lectured, as well as from all the school presidents for whom she has taught during the past five or six years.

eye of an artist, however, to mingle the colors successfully, and it should always be attempted.

In looking around for something new in the way of tea gowns I came across the one represented in the picture which is, I think, one of the prettiest brought out this season. Cream colored moleskin de sole forms the gown which is a wide-sleeved one in the neck and gathered full across the front under a wide-spreading collar of lace, while the sleeves, which reach only to the elbow, are finished with a full ruff of the same. The arrangement of the ribbon furniture is an exceedingly good one, crossing the back in front, the bust in empire effect and ending in the back in a Watteau bow and long ends. I have seen this gown prettily copied in white muslin over a rose-tinted silk lining, the ribbon trimmings matching the lining.

Vestments—lace and muslin are still the idols of the hour, and the same may be said of grass linen. However, the latter differs considerably in texture. The grass linen which makes the ready-made abouts, resembles not in the least those of the genuine linen which composes the bodices shown in the picture which is lined with silk and introduced in the rejoinder.

AT THE BATTLE OF OPENHAGEN

Sensations of One on Ship During an Awful Scene of Death.

Toward the close of the action, Col. Hutchinson reported to me that the guns wanted quit or gun tubes (which are used as more safe and expedited than loose priming) and wanted me to send some one, adding: "His own men were too ignorant of the ship, or he would have sent one before my return," says a writer in Macmillan's magazine. I told him: "I knew no body who could so well be spared as myself." He, however, objected to my going, and as I was aware of the dreadful slaughter which had taken place in the center of the ship I was not very fond of the jaunt, but my conscience would not let me send another on an errand I was afraid to undertake myself, and away I posted toward the fore magazine.

When I arrived on the main deck, along which I had to pass, there was not a single man standing the whole way from the mainmast forward, a distance containing eight guns on a side, some of which were run out ready for firing; others lay dismounted, and others remained as they were after recolling.

In this dreary scene, I shall excuse for shuddering as I walked across the body of a dead soldier. I hastened down the fore ladder to the lower deck and felt really relieved to find somebody alive; from thence I reached the fore cockpit, where I was obliged to wait a few minutes for my cargo, and after this pause I felt something like regret, if not fear, as I remounted the ladder on my return. This, however, entirely subsided when I saw the sun shining and the old blue ensign flying as lofty as ever.

I never felt the genuine sense of glory so completely as at that moment, and if I had had the courage to haul that ensign down, I could have run at and shot him dead as I determined a man as the celebrated Paul Jones. I took off my hat by an involuntary motion and gave three cheers as I jumped onto the quarter-deck. Col. Hutchinson welcomed me at my quarters as if I had been on a hazardous enterprise and had returned in triumph. Mr. Yelland also expressed great satisfaction at seeing me in such high spirits and so active.

SPIDER CRAB ARE FIGHTERS.

The blue crab is a natural born fighter; the probability is that he would a little rather fight than not.

The spider crab is an amateur of fighting.

With the spider crab his claws are there are eight or ten big spider crabs

in one of the tanks at the New York aquarium; the biggest of them four inches in length of body and measuring eight or ten inches in width of legs.

They are the largest of all the crabs in the tank the other day, and stood up on their hind legs and faced each other like two boys meeting in the street. Then they threw their upper legs around each other and grappled, and began plugging away at each other until they pinned the other one on his back and fell on him; he hit him once after he was down. Then went they ways.

A HISTORIC TREE WRECKED.

During a recent severe storm a sycamore tree was blown down at Sandusky, O., which was noted for the reason that the Indians hollowed it out and carved for two dogs' kennels.
